

ARTICULATED VEHICLE

Abstract

Method and arrangement including a vehicle having a first and a second vehicle section connected to an articulation that allows rotation about a vehicle longitudinal axis of the vehicle. A positioning arrangement is included that has at least one adjusting device in which the positioning arrangement includes operation by at least one adjusting device in order to rotate the first and second vehicle sections into a predefined basic position in relation to one another.